Attila Kapitany is an acknowledged expert on succulents

Trees both in habitat as well as being used in gardens will be looked at and discussed

Some interesting aspects of their usefulness in the garden will also be explored.

Attila has many spectacular photographs in his presentation

Boabs, and bottletrees and other extremely waterwise Australian Native shade trees "The Illawarra Flametree" (brachychiton acerifolius) and its more drought tolerant relatives are a highlight
Marvel at the majestic and spectacular giants of our continent
Some grotesque, some monstrous and others appearing in need of a hug
Attila will have his books and succulent plants for sale
